Red Sphere Spotted In Soviet, U. S.

Scientists Hope Russia To Share Nature's Secrets

By FRED S. HOFFMAN
WASHINGTON (AP)—American scientists, reporting headway in efforts to fix the orbit of Russia's high-flying space satellite, hoped today the Soviets will share with them any of nature's secrets it may unlock.

Meanwhile, visual sightings of the Russian baby moon—rocketing along at about 18,000 miles an hour—were announced in Russia and the United States. One American specialist said the Soviet space vehicle, launched Friday, passes over the United States about six times every 24 hours, on a north-south course.

Nature Not Disclosed

Radio Moscow, in a broadcast for home listeners, said last night the 23-inch space vehicle has already yielded information which it said is "of great scientific value." The broadcast did not say what this information involved.

Some U. S. scientists said the satellite apparently was sending back a coded signal, and they voiced the hope the Russians would let them in on the code, so they can share in any information obtained. One Russian expert said there is no special code in signals coming from the baby moon.

The satellite project is part of the program of the International Geophysical Year. This is a project aimed at learning more about the earth and the universe.

Dr. John P. Hagen, director of the American satellite program, said U. S. plans still call for launching small test vehicles later this fall, with the firing of full-scale 20-inch satellites in the spring. The American satellite is planned to weigh about 22 pounds, compared with the reported 185-pounder the Russians shot into space Friday.

Believed Test Vehicle

Hagen said the present Soviet satellite appears to be a test vehicle. He said this explains the lack of any advance announcement by the Russians.

Prof. A. A. Blagoravov, a top Soviet satellite specialist who attended an IGY meeting here last week, said the satellite now in flight is not the vehicle Russia had said previously it would launch as part of the IGY program. He said Soviet rocketeers plan to shoot aloft a second sphere "in the nearest future" as an IGY project.

He said all information obtained from its flight will be shared with scientists of other nations.

Ike Extends His Farm Home Stay

GETTYSBURG, Pa. (AP)—President Eisenhower extended a weekend stay at his farm home today in the hope of getting in another round of golf.

Eisenhower had no scheduled engagements at the White House in Washington, and indications were he would not return there until late in the day.

Cold weather and heavily overcast skies kept Eisenhower indoors yesterday after 18 holes of golf both Friday and Saturday at the Gettysburg Country Club.

Hoodlums Given Order To Leave Miami Beach

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP)—Miami Beach police revealed today that 30 men associated with the Teamsters to get out of town by Tuesday or be jailed. The men, termed by police "hoodlums with prison records," were not identified.

Natives Get Rare Ailment, Will Laugh Selves To Death

SYDNEY, Australia (AP)—Twenty Guinea natives afflicted with a laughing disease—laughing uncontrollably—are being laid down to die, after trying themselves to death in fits of New Guinea.

The official said he had been told there is one village in the highlands "packed with laughing men and women." The disease was discovered by an American, Dr. Carleton Gajdusek, who recently spent 15 months in the Hall Institute.

Some 70 natives are afflicted with kuru. An Okana Hospital official said the walls there shake from time to time with hysterical outbursts of laughter.

"Some of the 70 victims already are laid down to die, after exhausting themselves with laughing," he said.

Pleven Tries To Establish New Regime

PARIS (AP)—Rene Pleven agreed today to try to form France's 24th postwar government. Few members of the National Assembly thought he would succeed.

President Rene Coty sent the presidential plane to Brittany for Pleven, who was vacationing at his home there.

Pleven was Coty's second choice to succeed Premier Maurice Bourgès-Maunoury.

Guy Mollet, Socialist party leader who was premier for 16 months until last May 22, went to the Elysee Palace last night and told Coty he could not form a government.

The Socialists refuse to take part in any government which is not given special powers to fight inflation by price freezes and strict economic controls. Mollet apparently decided that there was no hope of his rallying enough support for this kind of a program.

Such measures are opposed by the center group of independents, who helped defeat Premier Maurice Bourgès-Maunoury last Monday when it joined opponents of the government's Algeria home rule bill.

Pleven also was believed unlikely to muster the necessary majority in the National Assembly although he is a skillful conciliator who twice served as premier, in 1950 and 1952.

Politics Termed Out-Of-Date Now By Indian Leader

TOKYO (AP)—Prime Minister Nehru of India today said the Soviet launching of an earth satellite "forces people to realize that our present-day politics are outdated."

"Science and technological advance have gone far ahead of the capacity of human beings to adapt themselves to it," Nehru told a news conference. "It is a quite fantastic advance."

"Military alliances, armament races and our politics are out of date. The gap between science and technology and normal human thinking is very big. We have to adapt ourselves to our age."

Prices Of Farm Lands Increase

WASHINGTON (AP)—Prices of farm lands increased 3 per cent during the 12 months ended July 1 to continue a market boom that started with World War II.

Reporting this, the Agriculture Department said land values advanced 3 per cent between March 1 and July 1.

The July 1 average for the country as a whole was 51 per cent above the 1947-49 average.

Storm Rakes Coast Areas, Damage High

By The Associated Press
Wet and cloudy weather extended across the northern part of the country today from the north Pacific Coast eastward through New England, but skies were clear in most other areas.

Precipitation was reported in wide sections, with heaviest falls in the New England region and the northern Plains. Rainfall measured 1 1/2 inches at Providence, R.I., and more than half an inch at Watertown, S.D.

The storm that struck the Atlantic Coast yesterday weakened considerably during the night. Heavy rain, high tides and gale force winds hammered the area. Wind gusts of 74 m.p.h. lashed Chincoteague, Va., and more than 4 1/2 inches of rain drenched Cape Hatteras, N.C. However, as the winds diminished all storm warnings along the Atlantic Coast and inland waters were lowered.

Freezing rain and snow flurries and temperatures in the 20s were reported in Montana and cool weather extended from the northern Plains to the Pacific Northwest.

Indictment Dismissed

LEONARDTOWN, Md. (AP)—A criminal indictment against a publisher and his editor who criticized actions of a circuit court in their newspaper was dismissed today.

The six persons, including the store manager's wife and young son, were held captive in a suburban Upper Arlington home but were unharmed by the gunmen, one of whom wore a stocking cap mask.

Investigators, noting the careful planning involved, said the two were adhesive tape over their lips to avoid leaving prints.

Ray Evans, 38, the store manager, said the robbers were courteous and calm throughout the operation.

Nine Negroes Not Heckled, Enter School

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP)—A new class week got under way at Central High School today with nine Negro students making a quiet entrance to continue their integrated education.

Principal J. W. Matthews appeared on the sunlit steps at the main entrance and cleared it of about 50 lounging white students in advance of the Negroes' arrival.

In contrast to last week's 30 or more armed escorting troops, only a half dozen federalized National Guardsmen walked beside the six Negro girls and three boys as they entered school. There was no heckling although several score white students looked on from school windows or at a distance on the campus.

A surface calm overlaid this focal point of the South's integration struggle during the weekend. But outside the state there was sound and fury.

In Little Rock, only the presence of federalized National Guard troops around Central High School betrayed the appearance that all was well. But elsewhere:

A South Carolina county bought nine submachineguns to repel any federal troops which might be sent there as they were here.

A burning cross, symbol of Southern resistance reaching back to Reconstruction days, blazed on the lawn of Gov. Theodore R. McAdams.

Baby, Two, Soaks Self With Fuel, Burned To Death

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP)—Douglas Wayne Rudel, 2, got hold of a can of gasoline in the family washhouse yesterday.

"He was bad about screwing the caps off things," said his father, Joney Rudel. "He must have just sat in the middle of the floor, unscrewed the cap off the gas can and poured the stuff all over him."

The pilot light of a water heater ignited the gasoline fumes and Douglas Wayne burned to death.

West Gets Warning By Bulgaria In UN

West Powers Seek Control Over Missile

Red Delegate Says Satellite Adds To Soviet's Strength

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (INS)—Communist Bulgaria warned today that "contemporary development"—obviously meaning the Russian "baby moon"—makes it more imperative for the west to seek peace on Soviet terms.

Bulgarian Deputy Foreign Minister Miko Tarnanov was the first speaker in the U.N. Assembly since launching of the Soviet satellite.

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP)—The West readied a U.N. disarmament resolution calling for international control of outer-space missiles today while a Soviet satellite circled the earth.

American sources said they thought the Soviet Union's launching of the world's first man-made moon would deeply affect "the whole feeling about the urgency of the disarmament negotiations."

Debate Due Wednesday
They said perhaps 20 nations would submit the resolution tomorrow or shortly after for debate to begin probably Wednesday in the U.N. Assembly's Political Committee.

Diplomats reported the resolution would have the 82-nation Assembly call for resumption of negotiations in the U.N. Disarmament Subcommittee on the basis of six Western proposals:

(1) Agreement on measures to control outer-space missiles; (2) cessation of production of fissionable materials for use in weapons; (3) gradual transfer of military atomic stockpiles to civilian use; (4) an end to nuclear tests; (5) cuts in arms and armed forces; and (6) ground and air inspection covering the whole of disarmament.

Britain, Canada, France and the United States proposed this program to the Soviet Union in a five-nation subcommittee in London Aug. 29. The Soviets rejected the plan and the subcommittee talks recessed in deadlock eight days later.

Specific Proposal Aired
The specific proposal on outer-space missiles is that within three months after a disarmament pact takes effect, a technical committee should be set up to work out an inspection system to see that such missiles are devoted "exclusively to peaceful and scientific purposes."

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Supreme Court today began a new term that is certain to produce historic decisions affecting racial relations, Communist activities and other important national problems.

Returning to the bench after summer vacation, the nine justices are confronted with an unusually heavy docket of about 800 cases.

The court already has agreed to hear arguments in 113 cases, in the previous term that ended July 11, the court heard arguments in 123 cases.

Los Angeles (AP)—The death of the driver and another child raised the toll of a parochial school bus crash to six today.

Carol Sue Castro, 7, died early today in a hospital.

Los Angeles (AP)—The strange wealthy matron may have met her end today. It is the state's attempt to prove that L. B. Scott killed his long-missing wife Evelyn.

Indications are that jury selection in the court of Superior Judge J. Scott is dead, much less murdered.

Mrs. Scott was 63 when she vanished from her $75,000 home in suburban Bel Air May 16, 1955.

Defense attorneys P. Basil Lam-bros, Al Matthews and Tom Williams are expected to attack the state's case on the ground that the prosecution cannot prove that Mrs. Scott is dead, much less murdered.

ATOMIC TEST SITE, Nev. (AP)—The Atomic Energy Commission fired the 24th, and last, explosion of the 1957 test series at 5 a.m. PST today.

Code-named Morgan, the final shot in the Plumbline series was detonated from a balloon tethered 500 feet above the Yucca Flat desert test area.

The fiery flash was visible for a few seconds in Las Vegas, 75 miles away. Observers on Angels Peak, 45 miles from the detonation point, said the fireball lasted 12 to 15 seconds.

Cloud Drifts Eastward
The mushroom cloud rose rapidly to 20,000 feet. It was tinged with pink after the brilliant yellow of the flash faded.

As the cloud went on up to 40,000 feet it was surrounded by a glow of ionization or icing. It drifted in an easterly direction after breaking away from the stem.

The AEC said no more than traces of offsite radioactive fallout were expected.

Reports to the AEC said the blast was heard as a rumble at Alamo and Tonopah, Nev., 100 and 150 miles distant, respectively, and at Bishop, Calif., about 100 airline miles west of the test site.

The AEC said the Morgan shot energy yield was below nominal or less than the equivalent of 20,000 tons of TNT.

Fifteen aircraft flew data-carrying missions. The AEC said there were no troops participating in the experiment.

The flash was seen in Los Angeles, 250 highway miles southwest, like a momentary sunrise.

Newsman at Angel's Peak said they didn't feel actual shock but heard a dull thump followed by a rumble lasting about seven seconds.

Final Shot In Nevada?
It was a device designed by the University of California's radiation laboratory at Livermore.

Whether today's atomic blast is the last ever for the Nevada proving grounds is a matter for determination at high levels in Washington, amid international discussions over ending nuclear tests.

The Morgan shot today was the 68th since testing began in Nevada in 1951.

Washington Awaits Red Reaction To Conference

WASHINGTON (AP)—State Department officials awaited Moscow reaction today for evidence on whether the unprecedented Dulles-Gromyko talk here will lead to some improvement in Soviet-American relations.

Meanwhile, Secretary of State Dulles and his aides were carefully studying Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko's comments in the person-to-person discussion to see whether they opened up any new avenues of approach.

Dulles and the top Soviet diplomat met in Dulles' home here late Saturday for 3 1/2 hours. A joint statement said they had talked about the Middle East, disarmament, the European situation and contacts between this country and the Soviet Union.

The statement which both men agreed to declared that exchange of views had been helpful in clarifying the policies of the two governments on these major areas of common interest.

Gromyko and reporters upon leaving Dulles' house, with a friendly farewell handshake in the front door, that he considered the session "useful."

Informed officials said neither power executive whose name he had put forward any new came prominent during the Dulles-Gromyko talks.

Storm Damages Burl Ives Yacht

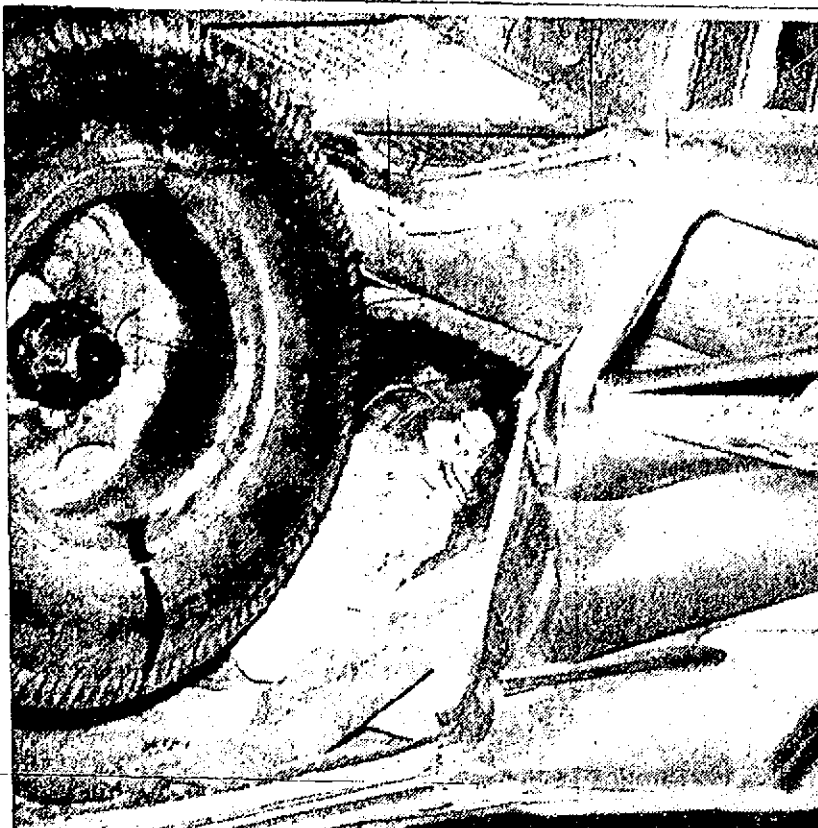

REHOBOTH BEACH, Del. (AP)—The Coast Guard today began efforts to salvage singer Burl Ives' 62-foot yacht, Black Spoonbill, which went aground in a heavy storm yesterday.

Six friends of Ives who were enroute from New York to Florida, waded ashore from the battered yacht. Four of them were injured.

The Coast Guard at Indian River inlet said the yacht's stern was broken in half and lying across the cabin. The craft's rigging was tangled.

Girl Scout Hangs Self In Accident

ALBANY, N. Y. (AP)—A 12-year-old Girl Scout who had been practicing tying knots with a rope yesterday was found hanging in the bedroom of her home at near-by Guildland.

State police and a coroner said the death of Caroline Ulsamer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Ulsamer, appeared to be accidental. Ulsamer is an assistant state attorney general.

State police said Mrs. Ulsamer found a rope looped around Caroline's neck, with one end caught on a door hinge.

Troopers said the girl was fond of horses and apparently had made an improvised stirrup. They theorized that the knotted end of the rope became wedged in the hinge and that the girl slipped while using the stirrup loop to practice mounting. The loop apparently fell over her head and around her neck, police said.

Delaware Negro Held For Murder

REHOBOTH, Del. (AP)—James Tamm, 40, of Rehoboth was held on a murder charge today in the Saturday night shooting of Horace Lee Rolfe, 31.

State Police said the two Negroes had argued over a woman while visiting the Dew Drop Inn here Saturday night. Rolfe was hit in the back by a blast from a 12 gauge shotgun.

Tamm was taken before Magistrate Helen Faust at Lewes yesterday and was ordered held in the Sussex County Correctional Institution without bail to await grand jury action.

Juvenile Delinquency Issue Enters N. Y. Mayor Contest

NEW YORK (AP)—The nation's largest city will elect a mayor Nov. 5 with something new in campaign issues—juvenile delinquency.

Such incidents as a shooting "rumble" of youthful street gangs have been seized upon by the Republicans in their effort to unseat Democratic Mayor Robert F. Wagner.

The Republican candidate is Robert K. Christenberry, a Southern-born hotel executive and former chairman of the State Athletic Commission.

Christenberry dramatized the issue a few days ago by rushing to a high school minutes after a 15-year-old boy in a music class in a school and the fights or there shot and wounded a 16-year-old youth.

The Republican took the occasion to declare that Wagner is "failing to do anything" about delinquency.

Wagner's position is that all possible is being done to cope with the problem.

The post the two "Bobs" are fighting for has sometimes been called the second in importance in the nation—after the presidency—and is one of the country's highest paid political jobs.

The mayor of New York gets $40,000 salary, $25,000 for expenses, extra money for official entertaining, the use of Grace Mansion as a home, a city limousine and a chauffeur.

The gunmen took them to an upstairs bedroom and bound their hands and feet with wire, then hid in the dining room until Evans and his wife returned. The robbers then tied up Mrs. Evans after also ordering her upstairs.

Evans said the robbers learned that he did not have the store keys. They tied him up, too, and settled down to wait for the arrival of Allerton, who, Evans was forced to disclose, was bringing the keys to the home.

When Allerton arrived, he was met at the door and tied up by one gunman while the other took the keys from his pocket.

Mrs. Allerton, waiting in her husband's car, was approached by one robber who "asked me if I would please come into the house with him... I told him no."

Mrs. Allerton said the man told her, "Lady, I'm a thief, and my partner and I are going to rob a grocery store tonight."

She said she became convinced when he showed her a gun and she went into the house.

Town Has No Law Against Jail Breaking

MIDDLETOWN, Ohio (AP)—Middletown law officers wanted to charge an inmate with breaking out of jail into a problem—there was no law against breaking out of the city jail. They finally charged the escape with destruction of city property—he broke a window in his escape—and city fathers promptly adopted an ordinance plugging the embarrassing legal loophole.

Picks New Name

Upon his accession to the throne, the Pope takes a new name, which usually is the name of some predecessor whose sanctity and policy particularly appeal to him.

The U.S. Department of Labor was given Cabinet status in 1913 as the 10th executive department.

Citizens wishing to change political affiliations have been reminded by the County Board of Election Supervisors that the deadline is Wednesday, November 20.

State law provides that there shall be no change of political affiliation within six months of a primary election. The 1958 primary election is scheduled for next May.

Twelve prospective new voters registered during September at the board's office in the Court House basement.

Nine of the 12 registered as Republicans and three as Democrats. The new Republicans include two Negro women, four white women and three white men. Two of the new Democrats are white men and the other a white woman.

Citizens may register to vote between 9 a. m. and 4 p. m. Monday through Friday and between 9 a. m. and noon on Saturdays at the Court House.

Mary Haworth's Mail

Editor's Note: 11-year-old boy misbehaves with younger children; Neighborhood mothers alarmed

DEAR MARY HAWORTH: The parents in our neighborhood have a serious problem, concerning which we would like your help. A boy of 11, of a much admired family, is having younger boys astray, into futile practice of sex misbehavior. He then threatens if they tell their parents, he will return and beat them up.

This has come to light only in recent weeks, when some of the younger children, obviously disturbed, broke down and told their parents. Some of these children are as young as three years old.

Even in his public play, the boy is seldom with the boys his own age—usually with small children, tumbling on the grass with them and tickling them.

The boy's father is a doctor, and now is the time when he might help his son. Yet none of us has the heart to speak to the parents. Meanwhile the situation is a constant threat. Many of the mothers have been alerted.

Would we be meddling unwarrantedly if we told his parents? They are fine people, who are helpful neighbors to everyone. And nobody would want to hurt youth guidance group.

them. The boy goes to a private school, and it may be that a companion there is the source of his misconduct. I would appreciate a prompt reply; we are awaiting your advice—E. S.

Anxiety Seems Well Warranted

DEAR E. S.: The sensible substance of your letter, here condensed, establishes the fact that your outlook on children's behavior is wholesome.

In other words, your anxiety in this situation isn't a case of reading morbidly into a basically innocent pattern of misbehavior. On the contrary, I agree with you.

Western Sidekick Refined

By HAL MC CLURE

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—The venerable veteran of the horse opera, the comic sidekick, has apparently ridden his bulky mule into the sunset for the last time.

For now there's a new breed of sidekick on TV—serious, more intelligent and helpful.

The Wyatt Earps, Matt Dillon and assorted riders of the range now are virtually assured of a little support when they go after villains.

Not that comedy has disappeared. It's just a little more tame than in the days when Gabby Hayes, Smiley Burnette, Roscoe Ates, Fuzzy Knight or Al St. John rode the trail.

"Sure Western comedy has changed," says 30-year-old Dennis Weaver, the sober sidekick to James Arness in "Gunsmoke." "But drama itself has progressed from the old pie-throwing days."

As Chester, Matt Dillon's lame deputy, Weaver speaks "pure Oklahoma" which he picked up from a college buddy at the University of Oklahoma.

"No, I don't really limp," he says, "but fans often write—even from England where I understand the show is very popular—asking about my bad leg."

Traditionally, Weaver observes, sidekicks have been older men, not expected to shine at the show-down. The limp serves the purpose.

of "allowing the lead character, Marshall Dillon to take complete charge of the situation."

Mason Alan Michard III, 20-years-old, is another TV sidekick. The son of the late Alan Dinehart, longtime Hollywood and Broadway actor, Mason plays But Moseyerson, Wyatt Earp's problem pal on TV.

Dinehart looked so young that he had to wear a moustache and sideburns to age him a mile.

Almost harkening to the past are the comic relief men of the Roy Rogers, Gene Autry and Wild Bill Hickok shows.

Andy Devine, a 51-year-old veteran of movies from the 1920s, admits the sidekick has refined. As Jingles to Wild Bill Hickok (Guy Madison), Andy is really Jingles to many kids. He remembers once when some youngsters showed up in his Van Nuys, Calif., home and asked his wife, "Can Jingles come out and play?"

OUR COUNTRY
The union of hearts, the union of hands and the flag of our Union forever.—Morris.

Fire Hazards

THE COUNTRY HAS constantly dinned into its ears the need for greater safety on its streets and highways. It hears altogether too little about its very serious losses from fire. With National Fire Prevention Week in mind, it is fitting to examine this situation. Proper attention may help to halt a dangerous rise in the total of fire damage across the nation. Last year U. S. fire losses came to $989,200,000. That was a record. In 1957 the figures are still more frightening. After eight months the total was $706,333,000, representing a gain of 6.8 per cent over the comparable period of 1956.

IF THIS PACE is maintained through Dec. 31, then for the first time in history the country's fire losses will pass one billion dollars. Insurance experts and fire officials make some allowance, of course, for the fact that inflated prices have affected the totals. The cost of replacing buildings and equipment and furnishings has soared in the past decade or more. But even after compensating for this factor, they say, the totals are alarming. There are far more fires than there used to be. Fifteen years ago 650,335 fires were reported, including 311,280 classed as building fires. In 1956 the total of all fires was 865,561, of which 408,952 were building fires. One can say, perhaps, that the country today has many more buildings and many more people than in 1942, hence the increase is no great surprise.

BUT THE NATIONAL Board of Fire Underwriters says that in the 10 years ended Dec. 31, 1955, fires from four of the five leading causes could have been sharply reduced through education. The five chief causes, in order of importance, were: matches and smoking, 26.36 per cent of fires; misuse of electricity, 14.69 per cent; lighting, 9.65 per cent; oil and its products, 6.99 per cent; and stoves, furnaces, pipes and boilers, 6.76 per cent. In terms of actual dollar losses, misuse of electricity was the most damaging. Carelessness in the use of matches and in smoking is a personal matter which individuals must manage to guard against. The other "controllable" causes involve teaching people how to use dangerous materials and equipment, and inspecting regularly—not just occasionally—homes, commercial places and public buildings in search of defective apparatus and other fire hazards.

Adenauer's Chance

CHANCELLOR Konrad Adenauer is Germany's hero of the hour. His overwhelming triumph gives him a chance to go down in history as Germany's foremost statesman. Heretofore, Germans generally gave this honor to Otto von Bismarck. The "Iron Chancellor" created a united Germany out of a multitude of petty states. His policy he well called one of "blood and iron." Successful wars made Germany the leading nation in Europe, and Prussia the leading state of Germany. In his latter years Bismarck was content to hold on to his gains without venturing further. Because of his success, Germans often have overlooked his brutality and autocracy. After World War I Gustav Stresemann was the German prophet of reconciliation with France. His words sounded strange in the mouth of an old-line Prussian reactionary. Yet his moderation and friendliness brought ostracized Germany back into the fellowship of nations. He died before he could show what he would have made of Germany's new strength. As German atrocities in World War II far exceeded those of World War I, Adenauer has a far harder task than Stresemann. He succeeded in making his country acceptable to her neighbors, and out of the ruined cities built up the strongest economy in Europe. His remaining task is to reunify Germany over Russian opposition. If he succeeds, he will be Germany's future national hero.

ONE COMMENTATOR observes that several new television situation comedies rely too much on dubbed-in canned laughter. In other words, if there is anything worth laughing at, American audiences don't need prompting.

Nelson Rockefeller May Dabble In Politics

WASHINGTON — Winthrop Rockefeller's refusal to become involved publicly in the integration crisis in his adopted state of Arkansas is attributed in part by New York politicians to the ambitions of his brother, Nelson.

According to this theory, Nelson, second son of John D. Jr., is an aspirant for the Republican nomination for Governor of New York next year. The contest for the nomination appears to be wide open, with none of several other hopefuls having anything like a clear-cut lead or a great popular following.

Although New York has some glaring spots in its own eye—Hartford, for one—it has, in general, been a leader in the demand for equality of citizenship. No party there would nominate a candidate who is not an active foe of any discrimination based on race, creed or color.

NELSON and all his brothers, Winthrop included, plus his father, amply qualify on such a basis. In fact, all the Rockefellers today take their citizenship duties seriously and are active in a variety of causes and reforms. Up to now, however, these have been educational, social and welfare in nature.

Nelson is the first to show signs of wanting to engage in the rough-and-tumble of elective politics, though he has spent a substantial apprenticeship in appointive politics under both Democratic and Republican Presidents.

If Winthrop feels that he would not like to risk hampering him in any way, it would be a natural sentiment and one in keeping with the close family ties the brothers have maintained.

IT IS ALSO perfectly obvious that the penmen of Little Rock are showing a very hard furrow. Anything they say or do is susceptible to misunderstanding. This would be true in such an emotional situation even without the elusive personality of Governor Orval E. Faubus.

With the best intentions in the world, Winthrop Rockefeller could become involved in something it might be difficult for Nelson to explain on a New York hustling.

That he would be taxed with guilt-by-association seems clear. Democratic candidates as far from Arkansas as New York and New Jersey — Mayor Robert E. Wagner and Governor Robert B. Meyner, respectively — are now being put on the defensive by Republicans about Little Rock.

Winthrop Rockefeller has seemed to be happier and more successful in his Arkansas career than in his earlier life in New York. Unquestionably he would like to be helpful to his present neighbors. To do this without a sacrifice of principle is a problem engaging many people.

NELSON Rockefeller's rivals for the right to run next year against Governor Averell Harriman include two upstarts who are legislative leaders, Oswald Heck and Walter J. Mahoney, and former Republican National Chairman Leonard Hall of Nassau County.

Hall, the successful architect of the Eisenhower draft and reelection last year, recently made up with an old foe in the GOP organization, National Committeeman Russell Sprague. But he has felt the lack of a public office to keep him in the news.

Suspicious Democrats first fingered Nelson Rockefeller as a potential foe when he offered to buy the Brooklyn Dodgers to keep them in New York. Suspicious Republicans counter that New York Mayor Wagner killed the deal to keep their boy from becoming a public hero.

White House Seeks Answer To Tax Cut Plan

WASHINGTON — (NEA) — The Eisenhower administration is now trying to figure whether it can justify and recommend a tax cut to Congress for next year.

The possibility that Congress will vote one anyhow, even if the President doesn't recommend it, is not to be overlooked.

Next year is an election year and both houses of Congress are controlled by Democrats.

Oct. 1 was the deadline for all government agencies to file with the Budget Bureau their first requests for next year's spending money. By Oct. 15, all recommendations for new legislation, with new spending authority, are due at the White House.

Then will begin the three-month job of whittling down the estimates and adding up the totals to send to Congress in the budget message next January. This will cover the fiscal year 1958, beginning July 1, 1958, and ending June 30, 1959.

BUDGET Bureau Director Percival F. Brundage has a personal hope that 1959 expenses can be held down to 70 billion dollars. But his chances aren't too good.

Latest revised estimates on this year's budget put expenditures at 72 billion dollars. This allows for cutting Department of Defense expenditures to 38 billion dollars. Cutting off another billion might seriously hurt U. S. defenses.

The prospect is that defense and some other expenses will go up.

A government workers' pay increase, which the President vetoed last year, would cost another 800 million dollars.

Additional housing aids authorized by Congress this year will cost another billion next year. Government interest payments have been advancing 500 million dollars a year since 1955.

ANYTHING added for school construction, farm aid, public works, increased social security benefits, foreign loans or some new international emergency will shoot total expenditures still higher.

Congressional approval of an increase in postal rates would bring in 600 million dollars more. This was defeated in Congress this year.

Personal income is still on the rise. This results in increasing income tax collections.

If the administration's anti-inflation program succeeds, it could be followed by lower corporate profits next year. This would mean lower corporate income tax collections.

The fact that the stock market is now in the doldrums is one indication that business believes the government will cut spending and curb inflation wherever possible, says Brundage.

WITH TAX receipts for the current year now estimated at 73.5 billion dollars, there will be a budget surplus of 1.5 billion dollars next June 30.

That would give the Eisenhower administration its third balanced budget in a row. But it wouldn't be enough of a surplus to justify a tax cut, says Brundage.

Glancing Sideways

NEW YORK — You come away from the lagoon in Central Park and stand on the sidewalk there to study that gray, delightful and opulent old pile which is exactly 50 years old and, at one time, was occupied 90 per cent by New York millionaires who leased their suites and apartments on a permanent basis.

The old Plaza, still a haven for money, would let permanent guests have suites by the year starting at $16,000 and running to $35,000 a year at a time (1907) when a dollar was a whole, round, solid item worth exactly 100 cents and each cent could buy something. They leased the choice suites with vistas on either the park or Fifth Avenue.

WHAT millionaires? That's easy to answer without going in to look at the old guest registers: Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Gwynne Vanderbilt, Mrs. James Henry Smith, John W. "Bai-a-Million" Gates, Mr. and Mrs. Oliver Harriman, Col. William Jay, Mr. and Mrs. George Jay Gould. You want more? They could be named.

When sleep time came to the Plaza each late night it was estimated that $387,000,000 worth of slumber was represented. Maybe more. And did you know that Eleanor Glynn, that audacious woman, thought up most of the plot of "Three Weeks" while having tea in the court at the Plaza?

Famed debutantes had their debuts there, too. More than noteworthy was the debut ball, in 1921, given by Mr. and Mrs. Payne Whitney to present their daughter, Jean, to society. She is the sister of John Hay Whitney, our Ambassador to the Court of St. James's today. In 1909 the George Goulds presented their daughter, Marjorie, at a vast fete.

YOU LEAVE these nostalgic and glamorous considerations and wander west on Central Park South, a lovely street between Columbus Circle and Fifth Avenue, and which, once it jumps across Fifth Avenue becomes prosaic, down-at-the-heels, slightly lawdry, plain 59th Street.

You pass Sixth Avenue and look up to the dark windows in the locked apartment of the Reginald Denham. Reggie and Mary are in Rome. He directing that lush Italian pasta, Miss Lollabrigida.

Modern Stilt Walking

WASHINGTON—Ladies, I am not spoofing you today about your shoes. I know how you suffer. Once I wore high heels, myself.

That was in the wild West—Tucson, Ariz., to be exact. There at a whoopla one evening I found myself being dressed up as a cowpoke, including boots with towering heels. Walking on these was not easy. I kept feeling like I was about to fall on my face. I almost did, too, while going down a flight of stairs.

I gave my boots to a Westerner, who owned no horse but said he liked square dances, and now, suddenly, I am receiving complaints from ladies about how they're not either crippled. They just look that way.

THE TROUBLE seems to be that for a generation the female sex has been clicking around the nation in shoes with heels three inches high. Doctors complained about this. Experts wrote learned treatises on the damage they did to the spine. This did not bother the ladies. They got used to their high heels, said they, and felt comfortable in them.

Now, they claim the three-inch heel suddenly has disappeared. It is either two inches now, or four. This is throwing the female sex out of balance, producing tired leg muscles and making the ladies sore at the shoemakers.

THAT IS ONLY the beginning. These heels have been growing narrower. The most stylish ones are not much bigger around than a lead pencil.

Some of these are made of wood, and it's no trick for a girl to snap one off merely by walking in a sidewalk crack. Then she limps to a shoe repair place, where a new pair of narrow stiffs are likely to cost her about $5.

Many shoemakers attempted to remedy this hazard by boring a hole down the heel and placing therein a steel rod, as in reinforced concrete. These heels still have a tendency to break. The rod bends and the lady on top suddenly gets a squishy sensation under one foot. To the shoe repair man she hops.

THE PRINCIPAL danger, it develops, is psychological. When a girl gets dressed in her high heels, there's a good chance she's headed for a department store. Here she finds escalators. These have grooves in the treads. Catch a heel in one of these and a lady feels like she's about to be shredded like the cabbage in the 65-cent shoppers' lunch.

So she rides the escalators standing on her toes. This is no easy trick when her heels already are four inches tall. The human toe, after all, will bend only so far.

THAT BRINGS us to the toes we making the best possible use of our wealth: are we spending it on the things we really want and need to measure up to our potential as a great and enlightened people?

and Mary having a daily ball swarming her way through antique shops, odd byways and narrow alleys of the real Rome, not the tourist trot.

You sigh, thinking of the many charming parties and dinners you have had in that corner suite which looks across to the park and which is such a haven of Manhattan hospitality.

Reggie likes the unusual at table and his dinners always consist of such oddments as Aspic de Homard au Bellevue or Peulles Farcie, and if I knew what either really was it wouldn't matter. They taste fine.

ON THE opposite corner you run into, after months of never seeing him, the utterly bald poet, Tom Weatherly, minnesinger of Broadway and piper of misereance. He tells you that he is thinking of learning to skin-dive, only with the idea in mind of finding a way of staying down for a long time because a scientist has stated that fish are safer than man in nuclear tests.

It has proved, he says, that food found in the sea and devoured by fish shows less contamination than crops and meats of the land. You suggest that he repair to his lower and compose an ode on this situation, but he declines and is a little irritated because you do not take him seriously about the fish. He leaps into a passing cab, establishing the fact that modern poets have money, and roars off into the evening.

You get as far as Columbus Circle and study that odd architectural feat, the New York Coliseum, deciding that it looks like something a child would build from empty shoe and berry boxes.

YOU ARE joined soon by three bow-legged, lank-legged cowboys here for the rodeo and they ask you if that's the largest exhibition building in the world and you have to tell them that you simply don't know. But you can tell them it has the largest exhibition room in the world with an unsupported ceiling. That is, no pillars to hinder view and placement of exhibits.

"Well, now, you see," says one incomprehensibly as they walk over toward the park and its benches.

Washington Scene

WASHINGTON — I toyed with the notion of accepting the French premiership, but decided it wouldn't pay me to go to France for just a couple of days work, so instead I went to the Pentagon to cover old Charlie's farewell bout with the press.

This coming Wednesday, Charles E. Wilson will walk out as Secretary of Defense for a rest he has richly, or poorly, earned depending upon whether you're for Thor or Jupiter. If suppose he is glad he is going, but he shouldn't have looked so ballistically happy about it. A few ICBM tears of sorrow at parting would have looked more intercontinental.

I suppose I should feel rather cold toward old Charlie because he went out of his way recently to say that he likes "regular" members of the press, but can't abide headline writers and columnists. However—and this seems a far-fetched way of describing the outgoing czar of all our armed services, but is nevertheless true — there is a winsome quality about the old autocrat.

His press conferences have been by far the most outspoken and riotous we have had under the Eisenhower administration. The venerable ex-president of General Motors has operated under the fast-fading theory that a press conference is for the asking and answering of questions.

I hope that his successor, Neil McElroy, the soap king, will not be deterred from following old Charlie's example, although I hear he is very detergent.

AT THE OUTSET, Mr. Wilson announced, somewhat superfluously, that he had brought a guest for his farewell appearance. He pointed to Mrs. Wilson, who couldn't have been overlooked because she sat up front by herself covered with the biggest orchid I have seen since the invention of the DAR. Moreover, the redoubtable Jessie Wilson, who hasn't hesitated to tell off anyone who disagreed with her husband, including President Eisenhower, got into the act.

A society writer interrupted a very technical discussion of the rival Thor and Jupiter missiles (which made the defense secretary's therionth not Thor) to inquire if he had found the social life in Washington longer than his executive duties. Mrs. Wilson piped up:

"I'd like to answer that. The answer is 'yes!'"

She put a lot of feeling into it. I have a feeling that if anyone invites Jessie Wilson to a cocktail party after Wednesday she is going to invite them to take the first ride on Thor or Jupiter, bareback.

Mrs. Wilson, who has a good warhead on her shoulders, cut in again to urge her husband to give us his "gooney-bird routine." He laughed hugely, and explained it was a routine he employed in the bosom of his family to change the subject when asked questions he didn't care to answer.

HE SAID HE HAD never gotten around to using it on the press, but had been tempted to do so numerous times. He said that whenever Mrs. Wilson asked about a classified matter he diverted her with a long dissertation upon the gooney-bird of Midway Island, winding up with the flat, if onologically disputable, assertion that they were a cross between a goose and a penguin.

When the next question was asked, he replied: "Now about the gooney-birds—" and the Pentagon roared with laughter.

He was asked how he felt about integration and he said that sixty years ago he went to school with a Negro boy and didn't suffer from it. He added: "He wasn't the dumbest boy in the class either."

I asked him: "Who was?" — but he just gave me a gooney-bird look and passed on to the next question.

I am sorry to see old Charlie go. And my sincerest wish — to paraphrase him a little — is that what is good for the country will be good for Charles E. Wilson.

Plane Crash Kills Six On Top Summit

UNIONTOWN, Pa. — Six persons, including an official of Standard Oil Co. of Ohio, were killed last night when their twin-engine airplane crashed near the top of fog-shrouded Summit Mountain.

Flying in dense rain, the craft came down in a heavily wooded area near the Jumanville Methodist summer camp about seven miles east of this southwestern Pennsylvania community. Ironically, the crash occurred a short time before the camp's huge, electrically lighted cross was turned on.

Fire enveloped the stricken plane. Wreckage was strewn over a wide area. At least three bodies were thrown clear.

Stephen R. Haky, deputy coroner of Fayette County, identified four of the victims from papers found on their bodies. They were:

Identification Made

T. M. McLaughlin, about 45, Shaker Heights, Ohio, senior partner of T. M. McLaughlin Co., Cleveland food brokers.

His wife Helene, Warren F. Noonan, 40, pilot, Middletown, Ohio.

Theodore O. Krauss, 30, copilot, Cleveland.

Haky tentatively identified the other two victims from clothing marks as Mr. and Mrs. R. S. Stewart, Cleveland.

A spokesman for Standard Oil of Ohio, owner of the plane, said Stewart was vice president in charge of the company's production.

On Vacation

He said the Stewarts and the McLaughlins, neighbors in Shaker Heights, boarded the plane after checking out of a hotel in White Sulphur Springs, W. Va. The couples were en route home after a vacation.

Stewart, 47, was born in Warren, Pa., and graduated from Cornell University. He joined S.O. in 1938 and was elected vice president in 1954.

Stewart and his 45-year-old wife, a former El Paso, Tex., beauty queen, have a son, 17, and a daughter, 15. The McLaughlins leave a son, Noonan was the father of five.

Hyndman Nurse Will Leave Next Month For North Africa

HYNDMAN — Miss Doris L. Evans, of here, has been assigned as a Christian missionary-nurse in North Africa.

Tentative plans were confirmed several weeks ago when the North Africa Mission, with whom she will serve, sent notification that arrangements have been made for her to sail from New York on the "Independence" on November 11. She is to arrive in Tangier, Morocco, on November 20.

Miss Evans is the first person of the church to serve as a foreign missionary, and Hyndman citizens believe she is the first citizen of Hyndman who will serve in this capacity.

A program will be presented at 9:30 a. m. at which time Miss Evans will relate experiences which led to her decision, and her plans for life in North Africa.

Pastor C. H. Beam will present a message entitled "Words of Challenge." Rev. C. E. Miller, will read the scriptures.

Rev. Mr. Miller was pastor at the time Miss Evans received her training. Two selections will be presented by the Young People's Choir and Miss Colleen Shoyer.

Shirley Evans will sing a duet. The Junior Church, which will assemble with the adults for this occasion, will also sing a group song. Mrs. Evelyn Miller will be the organist.

The program will climax as members and friends of the church present financial gifts to Miss Evans for missionary equipment. Some area churches have honored Miss Evans with a special program, while others plan to do so during the month of October.

Miss Evans, a daughter of Rev. and Mrs. Charles W. Evans, of Hyndman, is a graduate of Hyndman High School (1947), the Memorial Hospital School of Nursing (1950), and the Chicago Wesley Memorial Hospital School of Anesthesia (1954). The Pennsylvania State Police Barracks at Uniontown said all men in that area had been dispatched to a "shooting near Uniontown" and were not available to set up a road block.

The car was described as a 1953 or 54 dark or medium-blue Ford. It is believed to have been extensively "damaged" in side-swiping the car in which the university students were riding.

Damage to the Norman car was estimated at approximately $500. The investigation of the hit-and-run continued today and extended to garages and body repair shops in the two-state area.

FBI To Probe Burning Of Cross At Annapolis

ANNAPOLIS, Md. — State Police denounced segregationists in near-planned to turn to the FBI today for scientific help in tracking down the persons who burned a cross and hung anti-integration signs on the fence of Governor's House, the residence of Maryland's governor.

McKeldin has publicly and bitterly criticized the actions of Gov. Orval Faubus of Arkansas in the Little Rock integration crisis and has blasted segregationists in Maryland as well.

A passing sailor found the burning cross, two signs and two Confederate flags hanging on the iron rail fence surrounding the Executive Mansion about 1:05 a.m. Sunday. William Clark notified police, who extinguished the flames and took down the placards.

McKeldin, unaware of the incident until police notified him later in the day, called the cross burning — "whether the act of youthful pranksters or the expression of intolerance by a handful of adults . . . an empty gesture, completely wasteful in time and purpose" if it was aimed at changing his position or the position of Maryland officials from their support of human rights.

"If, however, the purpose of the perpetrators was to besmirch the name of Maryland beyond its borders, their efforts undoubtedly are meeting with success," the governor said. "It is the type of story which situations elsewhere are sure to magnify into newsworthiness."

"Much of the criticism, in which I have joined, of the situation created in the State of Arkansas was based on the certainty that the seeds of intolerance planted there would bear their bitter fruit in other places."

"This . . . occurrence in Annapolis gives substance to this ground," McKeldin added.

McKeldin has publicly accused Faubus of inciting the violence at Little Rock. He also has bitterly

Local Man Helps Track Red Satellite

Richard W. Reuschlein, 33, son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard J. Reuschlein, 308 Decatur Street, is one of a group of scientists who made the first established records of the Russian earth satellite's passage over Washington.

This disclosure was contained in a front-page article in yesterday's issue of the Washington Post and Times-Herald.

Members of the Carnegie Institution's Experimental Radio Research Laboratory at Derwood in Montgomery County were the first to establish specific records of the satellite's passage.

The satellite was detected by radio messages, it broadcast. They were picked up by an "interferometer" located at Derwood, four miles north of Rockville. The interferometer consists of two folded dipole antennae set up about 100 yards apart. They can detect a radio signal in a fan-shaped area stretching about 500 miles from the antennae.

The laboratory was able to start tracking rapidly because it was constructing a 35 megacycle receiver to read radio "signals" from stars.

Friday night Reuschlein, a staff assistant at the laboratory, was called at home by friends who told him of the launching. He rushed to the laboratory and started modifying the receiver. He and R. W. Wells, chairman of the laboratory's Upper Atmosphere Section, got their first transmit at 11:26 p.m. Friday.

A graduate of Allegheny High School, Reuschlein later studied at Bliss Electrical School in Washington. He has been employed at the Carnegie Institution's laboratory about eight years, his mother reported.

Woman Editor Tells Of Jet Plane Flight

Editor's Note — Ever wonder what it felt like to sit in the tight cockpit of a jet airplane, feel the enormous power welling from the power plant, see the ground zipping away? The woman's editor of the Charleston S. C. News and Courier had that chance. Here's her story.

Written for The AP

CHARLESTON, S.C., Sept. 29 — If I could live to be a thousand years old there would never be another moment to equal that when I first held the power of 4,000 horses in the palm of my hand.

The thrilling experience came some 15,000 feet above Charleston Air Force Base when Capt. Albert B. Hunter Jr. turned over the controls of a T33 jet trainer to prove the case of piloting one of Uncle Sam's jet planes.

The moment climaxed an excitement-packed day when base personnel went all out to show representative Charleston women the advantage an Air Force career could offer their husbands and sons.

On the ground, our entire group was painstakingly briefed on the equipment, a jet pilot must wear. Then, since I was to be the first to take off, I served as the guinea pig. I tried on parachute, helmet and oxygen mask. Finally I donned the flight suit.

In the plane when I had fastened all my chute and seat straps, helmet and oxygen mask, the airman rechecked my oxygen and intercommunication connections.

A little yellow breather dial assured me in the rarified air of the faithful flow of oxygen. The speaker in my oxygen mask enabled me to talk, not only with the pilot, but with my friends on the ground.

At no time while flying was there any sense of fear or insecurity. The ride was smooth and power-packed.

At 20,000 feet we could see the faint traces of Georgetown, some

Youth Group Mission Set

A Methodist Youth Witness Mission will be conducted tomorrow, Wednesday and Thursday at Centre Street Methodist Church by Rev. C. Edward Seymour, pastor of Boundary Methodist Church, Baltimore.

Services will begin at 7:30 p. m. Arrangements were made by the council for the Cumberland Sub-District Methodist Youth Fellowship.

Rev. Mr. Seymour has been serving churches in the Baltimore conference since 1917. In addition to his regular duties he has taken over the New Life Clinic formerly operated under the direction of Dr. Albert E. Day, formerly of Mount Vernon Place Church in Baltimore.

This past summer Rev. Mr. Seymour was the director of spiritual life for the Methodist Youth Fellowship Assembly at Western Maryland College, which is the official training program for Methodist Youth officers for the Baltimore Conference.

The unique feature of his ministry is that for about 32 years he has been blind, having lost his sight in a hunting accident. Each night the program will be led by the youth of this area.

Oklahoma Has New Mental Plan

OKLAHOMA CITY—(INS)—The death knell may have been rung in Oklahoma on the concept of "asylum" as it pertains to victims of mental illness.

The director of Oklahoma's Mental Health department, Dr. H. H. Donahue, has announced the state will establish half-way houses to expedite the return of mental patients to everyday life. Donahue, a dynamic, native-born Oklahoma psychiatrist who is pushing his state to the forefront in care for victims of mental illness, says the houses are the next essential step in recovery of mental patients.

"Ten years ago," he explains, "we used hospitals to treat the patient as far as the door. After that he was on his own, and often as not, forced to come back for more treatment."

"Now we realize to effect a recovery we must do more than get the patient out of the hospital. He must return as an operating member of society."

The transition from the conditioned, sheltered environment of a hospital to the competitive give and take of life is formidable, as Dr. Donahue, backed with books of statistics, sees it.

Nation's Super Highways Ditch Slum Clearance Jobs

By JERRY BENNETT

WASHINGTON—(NEA)—Construction of the multi-million dollar interstate highway network has unearthed a problem in the battle against juvenile delinquency.

Plans for the super road system are colliding head-on with slum redevelopment projects. And they threaten to run into others as work on new highways progresses.

Conflicts between slum clearance projects and highway routes delay or, in some cases, could even stop the important job of rehabilitating run-down neighborhoods which are breeding grounds for teenage crime.

U. S. Housing Chief Albert M. Cole and Federal Highway Administrator Bertram Tallamy have been holding a series of meetings to try to devise a plan to prevent road and housing projects from interfering with each other. Housing officials say that both men agree that something must be done about the problem.

Quick Solution

Emphasis has been placed on finding a quick solution through trouble spots which are already cropping up.

In Memphis, Tenn., the proposed site for approaches to a new bridge, which the interstate highway will cross threatens to wreck plans for a slum redevelopment program. So far the study to solve the situation has cost more than $14,000. And housing officials say a solution is nowhere in sight.

Hopes for a redevelopment program in Las Vegas are starting to dim. The land in question is bordered on one side by a railroad. If a highway is placed too close to the tracks, the land between will be worthless for construction purposes.

Baltimore Cited

And a completed slum face-lifting program in Baltimore is now threatened with complete destruction by part of the new gigantic Atlantic City to San Francisco highway program.

Heavy financial losses, which result from housing and highway clashes, also call for speed in solving the problem. The Housing and Home Administration has helped finance or is now reviewing plans for more than 400 projects. Of this number, 180 are now under construction.

At the same time highway engineers are trying to finish their job as fast and with as little expense as possible.

If the two agencies can come up with a workable system to coordinate their efforts, it is estimated savings could run into the billions of dollars.

Man Watching At Court Arrested

ALBUQUERQUE—Nonio Tenorio, 24, Albuquerque, dropped into federal court to see how the Bernalillo County Grand Jury was proceeding.

But he didn't stay long. He was spotted by deputy U. S. marshals and arrested on the spot. The curious Tenorio had been indicted the previous week on a dope charge.

He couldn't understand. Hadn't he been released on $1,000 bond? The deputies explained Tenorio had been released on $1,000 bond but U. S. Dist. Judge Waldo Rogers had raised it to $10,000.

EAST LANSING, Mich.—(INS)—American industry is hiring more philosophers to make sure their electronic "brains" are correct.

Dr. Richard S. Rudner, assistant philosophy professor at Michigan State University, says manufacturers of high speed digital computers are using philosophers as logicians in computer programming, coding and designing. Insurance companies have them screen complex policies to see that the firm does not contradict itself.

Rudner said policy decisions in industry, research and government are often made with the philosopher's help. Men with training in the special field of ethics can explicitly identify goals and values, then evaluate means for reaching those goals.

However, the professor stated many philosophers feel justification of philosophy solely for its usefulness is intellectually repugnant.

Duties Of Jury Listed By Judge

Henderson, In His Final Charge, Reminds October Panel Of Powers

In making his final charge to the grand jury of the October term of Allegany County Circuit Court, Chief Judge George Henderson pointed out today that "in connection with recommendations (of the grand jury) you must keep in mind that they do not have the force of law."

"Those to whom they are made may have some good reason for non-compliance. Nor are you yourselves bound to agree with those made by previous grand juries. But a recommendation made by any grand jury is certainly entitled to respectful consideration," Judge Henderson explained.

Judge Henderson told the jurors that "there is imposed on grand jurors part of the responsibility for conditions of the county—whether it be law abiding, or whether it will be the reverse."

Officials Responsible

"Naturally, the primary responsibility rests on the permanent law enforcement officials, such as the court, the state's attorney, the magistrate, the sheriff, and to a lesser extent on the various municipal officials in their own towns."

"But grand jurors, coming as they do from the various parts of the county and representing various business and occupations, and various religions, may have information of conditions which should be corrected, and about which others are not informed."

"And if they have such knowledge and do nothing, then they are at least partly responsible for the continuance of such conditions. Grand jurors have a good opportunity to improve the moral tone of the community."

Not Limited

"Probably most of the matters that will engage the attention of the grand jury will be brought before it by the state's attorney. He is the official adviser of the grand jury, and many matters have from time to time come to his attention which it will be his duty to present for your action."

"But you are not limited to matters presented to you by the state's attorney, and you can, on your own accord, go into these matters. If any of you have any personal knowledge of other offenses, it is not only your privilege but duty to bring it to the attention of your colleagues."

"Every grand jury should read carefully the report of the last preceding grand jury, and other grand jury reports if thought advisable. This should be done as soon as possible after the grand jury has retired to the grand jury room and organized."

Leaves Bench March 17

"It enables each grand juror to have a better idea what has been done before. Also the current grand jury can from time to time see whether the recommendations of the preceding grand juries have been carried out. If these recommendations with which you agree have not been carried out, the grand jury may wish to find out the reason why."

Thomas M. Holmes, a Lonaconing merchant, is foreman of the grand jury.

Judge Henderson will leave the bench next March 17 upon reaching the mandatory retirement age of 70 and therefore today was his final charge to a grand jury. Associate Judge Morgan C. Harris will deliver the charge in January and also in April.

Permit Granted

Peoples Drug Store, 74 Baltimore Street, has obtained a permit from the city building engineer to renew windows and doors and the first floor front of the establishment. Cost is estimated at $5,000.

Lodge Lists Winners Of Poster Event

Allegany Students Given Top Honors In Elks Contest

Winners in the National Newspaper Week poster contest sponsored by Cumberland Lodge 63, BPO Elks, were announced last night by Harry E. Thomas, exalted ruler.

Using the theme, "Your Newspaper Serves," five Allegany High School students walked off with top honors and an honorable mention. There were 61 entries from Cumberland schools, both public and parochial. The winners follow:

First, Melina Beal, Tenth Grade, $15; second, Susan Dietz, Twelfth Grade, $10; third, Rita Crowe, Twelfth Grade, $2.50; fourth, Michael Collins, Eleventh Grade, $2.50 and Beverly Holcomb, Eleventh Grade, honorable mention.

Judges were William C. Lewis, Charles W. Teubner, Theodore P. Rouse, Thomas, and William Mack, publicity chairman of the Elks lodge.

Failure to use the correct theme and designated poster board size, 18 by 24 inches, resulted in a number of the entries being eliminated, the judges said, adding that all students who entered the contest are to be commended.

Entries were judged on originality, aptness and design, neatness and quality of workmanship. The deadline was last Tuesday and judging took place Friday night at the Elks home.

Winners of the contest and invited members of the Cumberland press will attend a dinner Tuesday at 7 p. m. in the Rainbow Room of the lodge to observe the closing of National Newspaper Week which is sponsored by the Newspaper Association Managers, Inc.

Study Asked To Combine Culture Units

Band, Orchestra, Choral Society Coordination Urged

A study which would bring cultural programs such as the Choral Society, symphony orchestra and Municipal Band under the Recreation Department has been made by Finance Commissioner John J. Long.

Long, emphasizing that he favored continuation of the activities, said he believed from the financial viewpoint the groups should be included in the Recreation Department budget and such a recommendation should be made for the next administration in 1958.

The band is set up by city ordinance but the other two are given cash contributions annually from the contingent fund. "Today for example, the Mayor and Council approved a $200 contribution for 1957-58 to the Choral Society. It also approved the quarterly allotment to the band of $750."

The move, Long contends, would "tie the budget closer together."

Street Commissioner William H. Buchholz said he would meet with the recreation director, Gene Mason, and then make a report to council.

Recreation Session

Council had a mostly routine session today which included reading of regular month-end reports.

City Clerk Wallace G. Ulfery said office receipts amounted to $1,514.60 including $99.85 from bingo tax and recreation admission tax on bingo; and $166.75 from the Sunday movie tax.

In a report of receipt and disbursements, Long reported the following October 1 balances: General, $88,259.78; water operation, $175,185.21; general improvement bonds, $13,700.57; sewer bonds of 1931, $3,452.65; and sewage disposal plant, $49,446.93.

Police and Fire Commissioner William V. Keegan noted police made 1,040 arrests with fines of $1,289. The Fire Department received 41 calls but fire damage was minor.

Water Report

Water Commissioner William J. Edwards said his department received 12 service lines, extended 541 feet of main line; installed 31 meters and received applications for 16 taps and 26 meters.

The Street Department, according to Buchholz, cleaned 956 paved streets, 43 alleys, 60 catch basins and the Baltimore Street subway four times. Holes were filled in 12 blacktopped streets.

Concrete streets: 9 were graded, rolled and oiled; four received light surface treatment; and one was graded, rolled and blacktopped.

Parking Meter Inspector Harry Whisner said collections the week of September 22 were $791.40 compared to $760.78 the week of September 29, a decrease of $30.62.

Many Women
'Retire' Early
Under SS Act

Many women in the area are taking advantage of the new retirement age under Social Security, according to James E. Robertson, manager of the Cumberland district office of the federal agency.

The woman worker or the wife of a retired worker who chooses to receive benefits between the age of 62 and 65 will receive a reduced benefit and will continue to receive the reduced rate after reaching age 65. Widow's benefits, however, are payable at age 62 without a reduction in the amount of benefit, even though a reduced wife's benefit was received prior to the death of the husband.

The Social Security Administration tries to eliminate what is referred to as "red tape" as much as possible in connection with the filing of claims. However, certain information is needed in order to pay claims as quickly as possible. If the woman worker, wife, or widow is age 62 or over at the time of filing a claim, it is necessary to establish the correct date of birth. Also, when a widow files for payments on her deceased husband's account, her marriage certificate will be needed.

A birth certificate established at time of birth or a baptismal certificate will usually serve as proof of age, or if one of these documents is not available old records such as insurance policies or family Bible records can be used.

Robertson concluded by saying it will speed up the processing of claims if proofs are available on the first visit to the social security office. However, do not delay filing claims just because the documents mentioned are not available. The Social Security office will be glad to assist in filing claims and securing the required proofs, he added.

More than 200 students of Beall High School in Frostburg were absent from classes today.

A spokesman for the school said between 211 and 214 students were reported absent due to illness this morning.

Parents reported their children were suffering from sore throats, colds and fevers.

A check with Frostburg physicians and at Miners Hospital revealed that there are no indications of the Asian flu.

Greene Street Traffic Light Complaint Made

A Greene Street residents suggested today that traffic lights on 35. I'm glad you brought it up.

John J. Mitchell, 118 Winton Place, also commented on the need for clarification measures on the Greene Street lights.

Street Car Items Taken From Code

Council Action Follows Report Of Grand Jury

The Mayor and Council acted today to remove references to "street cars" from its ordinances today—about 25 years after the last car operated here.

Actually, the ordinance approved by council deletes Sections 22, 28 and 41 of Chapter 14 pertaining to the requirements for fenders on electric cars, lights for such cars and the speed at which they might travel.

The Grand Jury of the April term of Allegany County Circuit Court had suggested that the Mayor and Council update its ordinance in regards to railroad crossings and the action today is the result.

However, City Attorney Thomas B. Finan said in a letter to State's Attorney Paul M. Fletcher that it is not the opinion of council that the section pertaining to the time allowed for blocking crossings is obsolete.

Referred To Others

He also referred to other grand jury recommendations as follows: (1) Notices have been sent to merchants by the offices of Street Commissioner William H. Buchholz concerning keeping pavements clean and not sweeping debris in streets; and (2) public discussions have been held on revision of the curfew law.

Buchholz said in regards to the merchants' sidewalk suggestion, that his department had obtained from the property owner or occupant of premises a signed statement that the notice had been received. He said he is holding these signatures and, if called, will present them to the jury to be included in its record.

Proclamations Passed

Council also approved three proclamations. One designates this as "Fire Prevention Week"; another this week, "Employ The Physically Handicapped Week" and a third October 23 as "United States Day."

Mayor Roy W. Eves was authorized to execute a deed to the B&O Railroad for construction of an easterly "Y" track over Main Street owned by Gay Street Realty Corp. (Cumberland Undergarment Company). The construction is in connection with the flood control project.

Payments of $25 was authorized to William O'Brien as reimbursement for a trip to Baltimore for a physical examination as ordered by the State Industrial Accident Commission.

Top Officials Of B&O Here

A number of top officials of the B&O Railroad were in Cumberland last night and today to inspect the multi-million dollar yards under construction and also other facilities of the railroad.

In the party were H. E. Simpson, president; W. C. Baker, vice president in charge of operations and maintenance; J. W. Phillips, vice president in charge of traffic; A. W. Conley, general superintendent of transportation; F. B. Luke's Lutheran Church, according to Rev. William R. Snyder, pastor.

AND THERE IT GOES!—This was the scene at County Stadium yesterday as Milwaukee's Hank Aaron put the wood to the ball and sent it into the left-field stands in fourth inning for a three-run homer. Braves evened series with a teninning 7-5 win over Yanks with Ed Mathews' homer deciding the issue. Yanks had gone ahead on run in tenth. (AP Photos)

World Series Pinch-Hitters Batting .300

MILWAUKEE (AP)—Figuring the World Series:

Series pinch-hitters are batting an even .300 with three hits in 10 tries. The only one to hit safely were Jerry Lumpe and Elston Howard of the Yankees.

Lumpe has had a pair of singles. One more pinch-blow by Lumpe will enable him to tie the record set by Bobby Brown of the Yanks in 1947 and equalled by Dasty Rhodes of the Giants in 1954.

The Yankees' Tony Kubek, who has struck out six times, is in danger of setting a record. The standard is nine for a six game series set by Jim Bottomley of the Cards in 1930 and for a seven game set it is 10 by Bill Abstein of Pittsburgh in 1939.

Bob Hazle, who put together a sizzling .403 batting mark in a couple of months with the Braves, has been held hitless in six trips in the series. He has walked once.

Shortstops Johnny Logan and Gil McDougald are turning in fine defensive jobs. Between them they have handled 45 chances without an error—Logan 23 and McDougald 22.

The fourth inning is the big one so far. Eight runs have been scored.

Desi Arnaz Whoops It Up But Milwaukee Likes Eddie

MILWAUKEE (AP)—The press boys virtually had to kick down the dressing room door of the delirious Milwaukee Braves yesterday.

Some 15 minutes after Ed Mathews clouted his two-run homer which gave the Braves a remarkable 7-5 victory over the New York Yankees, the sports writers spilled eagerly into Milwaukee's joyous clubhouse.

Gendarmes had held the writers outside while the Braves congratulated each other, peeled off sweaty work togs and enjoyed the presence of TV star, Desi Arnaz, who somehow scooped the lads of the fourth estate.

Arnaz, of course, is the star of "I Love Lucy," but the theme in the Braves' dressing room was "I Love Eddie."

Mathews had to explain and then explain again how he measured a fast ball from the fifth Yankee pitcher, Bob Grim, to drill it over the right field fence for the final two runs of this thrilling game.

The 26-year-old Mathews, a "bust" in the first three games of the series, told of borrowing Joe Adcock's bat to break his slump of nine hitless trips. He doubled in the fourth to end the drought. Then Eddie talked of the big clout in the 10th.

"It was a fast ball I hit off Grim with a .22 count," said Mathews. "I knew it had the distance and I got the best feeling of my life. For a second, I got scared. Hank Bauer (Yankee right fielder) rapped his hand into his glove like he had a chance. But he didn't. It was gone."

Mathews' dramatic smash came after Johnny Logan doubled home pinch-runner Felix Mantilla from second. Mantilla ran for Nippy Jones, who got plunked on the foot by Tommy Byrne while pinch-hitting for pitcher Warren Spahn.

It wasn't just an ordinary plunking, Umpire Augie Donatelli first missed the play. Then, the Yankee Manager Casey Stengel, who would draw very few votes if he ran for mayor of Milwaukee, said: "We did all right—we came back pretty good. Everybody booted it away. We got ahead in the 10th but couldn't hold it."

Stengel also explained why he took out Byrne, after the left-hander hit Jones with the ball. The Yankee manager called in right-hander Grim, he said, "because I wanted a low-ball pitcher." The first Brave to face Grim was Red Schoendienst who batted left handed and sacrificed. Then came the right-handed swinging Logan, whose booming double tied it up.

Yanks Razed By 'Bushville' Series Fans

By DION HENDERSON

MILWAUKEE (AP)—The World Series experienced its first Sunday in Milwaukee yesterday—and for those of the 55,004 in County Stadium who have not endured the experience before, it may be just as well that at least a year will pass before they see another.

The fans, who since they heard some snide remarks about their carryings-on from New York visitors have been bent on calling their town Bushville and their place of baseball business County Stadium—brought out the cowbells as their Bushville Bombers bombed the big shots from New York.

Even Cheer Fouts

The Cowbells applauded Milwaukee deeds of daring, and to hold up the reputation they are beginning to enjoy, the fans even cheered an occasional long foul.

CVAL Title Seen Decided In Sentinel-Owls Contest

By JIM DAY
Times Scholar Sports Editor

Although it is still three weeks away, it appears as if the Cumberland Valley Athletic League football championship will be decided when Fort Hill and Westminster tangle on the Owls' gridiron the night of Friday, October 25.

The Owls and Red Raiders are knotted for the lead in the eight-team circuit with 2-0 records. Both have marked up easy victories with the locals rapping Frederick, 20-0, and Martinsburg, 41-13.

Drub Bulldogs, 40-0

Westminster, regarded as the team to beat in the pre-season analysis, has also had easy sailing with a 13-6 win over North Hagerstown and a 40-0 drubbing of Martinsburg Friday night.

Both elevens have CVAL opposition coming up this week, the Sentinels playing Handley in Winchester, Va., Saturday after noon while the Owls meet a surprising Frederick eleven at Westminster.

All eight teams will be in league trysts this week as Allegany is slated to beat South Hagerstown at the stadium Saturday night while North Hagerstown invades Martinsburg Friday under the lights.

The Sentinels had an out-of-the-loop clash Saturday and ran all over Bear of Frostburg, 48-0, to extend their unbeaten streak to TDs on aerials. Jeff Smelser four, Westminster also made it counted on passes covering 30 four without a loss in running.

Three Scoring Aerials

Westminster had two players tally twice against the Bulldogs over Bear of Frostburg, 48-0, to extend their unbeaten streak to TDs on aerials. Jeff Smelser four, Westminster also made it counted on passes covering 30 four without a loss in running.

A New Kayo Story

When Bill Criswell came here last Friday from Ohio to broadcast a pair of weekend schoolboy football games for WJUM he related an interesting story that he picked up in Youngstown about Kayo Christner.

Criswell said that he and the sports director at WKRN-TV, where Bill is employed, were discussing the advanced ages of such fine fighters as Archie Moore and Sugar Ray Robinson when the name of Christner came up.

The sports director, Don Gardner, has been doing announcing for 25 years in Youngstown and told Criswell a tale about Christner's start.

Kayo, as just about any Cumberland boxing fan can tell you, began his career while working in Akron, but a sports writer on a Youngstown paper was considered as the top promoter of that area.

After deciding he was serious about the fight game, following a couple of easy knockouts in a rubber company smoker, Kayo went to the Youngstown promoter and asked for a chance. When the man who now operates the Capital Bowling Alleys on Virginia Avenue told the promoter he was 31, he was flatly turned down.

The promoter pooh-poohed the idea that Kayo could ever amount to anything as a fighter with such a belated entrance into the game. Despite Christner's continued pleas, the writer-promoter dismissed him abruptly and in so many words, told him to "get lost."

Because of the unpopular character of this so-called expert, it was with utmost glee that others in the business witnessed Kayo's rapid rise. Criswell was told.

In two or three years immediately following his rejection, Christner became a family byword in the Akron-Youngstown-Cleveland area, his fights grossing something like $200,000 during that period.

Sports Keg Residue

Although a Yankee fan, Harry J. Barton was pulling for the Braves to win at least one game, seated a homer into the left in Milwaukee.

The general manager of the Cumberland Fair Association is a World Series regular but couldn't get to New York this year because the fall classic conflicted with his 12-day racing meet.

With yesterday's ten-inning win by the Braves necessitating a return to the "Big City" for the conclusion of the

Davidson Ace Gains Ground In Point Race

By The Associated Press
Davidson's prize junior half-back, Paul Barbee, is rapidly closing in on Mickey Marinkov of Richmond in the Southern Conference football individual scoring race.
Marinkov, who's tallied only one point in Richmond's last two games, clung to the lead today with 26 points compiled on three touchdowns and eight conversions. Barbee, a more consistent scorer, had four touchdowns for 24 points. He's scored in each of Davidson's three starts.
Three Others Close
Trailing the two leaders but within easy striking distance were a trio of halfbacks—Mike Sommer of George Washington, Ralph Anastasio of West Virginia and David Ames of Richmond. Each has three touchdowns and 18 points.
Ironically, though three of them—Barbee, Sommer and Anastasio—scored touchdowns last Saturday, not a one of the five point leaders could do enough to bring victory to his team.
Barbee got Davidson off to a one-touchdown, first-quarter lead over The Citadel but the Wildcats couldn't hold the advantage. The Citadel won 21-7 and by winning moved into first place in the Conference standings with a 2-0 record.
WVU Smothered
Sommer streaked five yards in the opening period for the touchdown that staked once potent George Washington to a 12-0 advantage over Furman, but Furman won 13-12.
Anastasio contributed a touchdown to West Virginia's far-from-sufficient attack in the Mountaineers' 45-13 loss to Wisconsin.
Neither Marinkov nor Ames could break into the scoring column as Richmond suffered a 28-0 licking at the hands of up-and-coming VMI. The VMI victory left the Keydets and The Citadel, each 2-0 for the season, the only remaining unbeaten clubs in the 10-team conference.
Perhaps the biggest news in the league over the weekend was William & Mary's astonishing 13-7 victory over Virginia Tech at Williamsburg.
Saturday's other game saw Washington & Lee's desubsidized Generals, who play no conference games, debut under coach Lee McLaughlin with a 7-6 setback at the hands of Centre College.

PEN-MAR PLAYOFFS SHUT OUT BY RAIN

Barrelville's bid to win the Pen-Mar Baseball League playoffs yesterday were rained out with the second game in the best-of-three series now listed for next Sunday on the Barrelville diamond. Game time will be 2:30 p. m.
The Old Exports and pennant-winning Merchants were to have clashed yesterday at Barrelville. The Old Exports, who won both the pennant and playoffs last summer, are a game up in the rounds, winning the opener, 5-2. Ab See of Hyndman is expected to oppose Bobby Raines Bobby Raines in next Sunday's contest.

Auburn, Army In Top Ten Following Saturday Wins

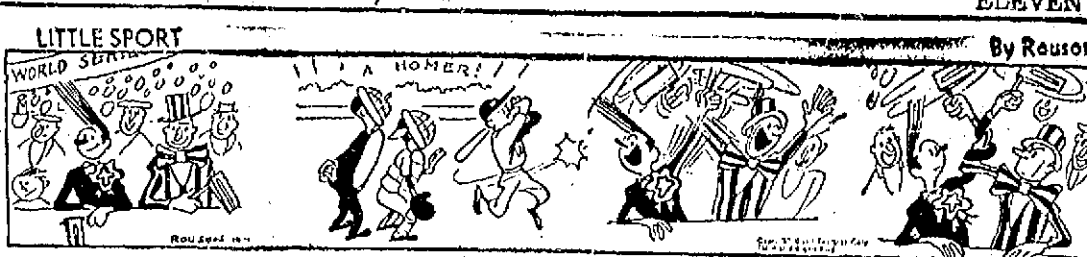

NEW YORK—(INS)—Auburn and Army were added to college football's "most wanted" list today as Oklahoma remained public enemy No. 1 for the third straight week.
The Tigers and Cadets crashed into the "top ten" circle for the first time after Baylor, ranked fifth last week, was upset by Miami and Navy (9) was ambushed by North Carolina Saturday.
Oklahoma, unbeaten in 42 straight games dating back to 1953, retained first place in the weekly International News Service poll by the slimmest margin of one vote over Michigan State, Michigan and Minnesota held on to third and fourth places, respectively, but the INS panel of experts moved up the rest of the order as follows: Texas A & M (5), Iowa (6), Oregon State (7) and Duke (8).
Auburn was ranked ninth on the basis of an upset win over Tennessee and then Saturday's 40-17 trouncing of Chattanooga. Army just passed North Carolina out of tenth place by ripping Nebraska and then polishing off highly-regarded Penn State, 27 to 13, Saturday.
Sooners Extend Streak
The INS panel consists of East-West Shrine game scouts Bernie Bierman, Andy Kerr and Francis J. Powers; INS columnist Bob Considine, and INS sports editor John Barrington.
Oklahoma, out to sew up a third straight national championship, humbled Iowa State, 40 to 14, and extended its record to 60 straight conference (Big Eight) wins and 118 successive scoring games.
The Sooners scored in every period as quarterback Carl Dodd tallied two touchdowns and half-back Jackie Sandefer raced a punt 81 yards to another score.
Michigan State quarterback Jim Nonowski tossed two touchdowns passes to help the Spartans blank California, 19 to 0, in the nationally televised "Game of the Week."
Michigan quarterback Stanton Naskin and half-back Mike Shatky each scored twice while the Wolverines swamped Georgia, 26 to 0. Dick Larson, a Minnesota sub quarterback, passed for one touchdown and ran for two others—including a 72-yard punt return—to beat Purdue, 24 to 17.
Missouri Blanked
Texas A & M rang up three TD's in less than five minutes, one on half-back Bobby Conrad's 91-yard return of the second-half kickoff, to shut out Missouri, 28 to 0. Halfback Ray Jauch crossed the goal line twice for du-ridden Iowa in its 20-10 win over Washington State.
Joe Francis and Eamonn Durden teamed up to give Oregon State a hard-fought 22-10 victory at Northwestern. And Duke half-back Ray Carlton ran his season's point total to 39, best in the nation, passing for one score and running for another in addition to kicking the extra points in a 14-0 triumph over Maryland.
The Tar Heels converted a Navy fumble and an interception into touchdowns to down the Middies, 13 to 7, and Miami topped Baylor's Sugar Bowl champions from the unbeaten ranks, 13 to 7, with half-back John Varone running for both touchdowns.
Oregon kept its Rose Bowl hopes alive by upsetting UCLA, 21 to 0. Other top scores included: Notre Dame 26, Indiana 0; Princeton 47, Columbia 6; South Carolina 27, Texas 20; Rice 34, Stanford 7; Brown 21, Yale 20; Nebraska 14, Kansas State 7; Illinois 40, Colgate 0; Dartmouth 6, Penn 3; Syracuse 27, Boston 20; Cornell 20, Harvard 6; North

Bakhtiar Carries 31 Times In Win Against Deacons

By The Associated Press
Dave Bourland, Army—Guided Army to three third quarter touchdowns against Penn State that led the Cadets from a 13-6 deficit to a 27-13 victory.
Ray Nitschke, Illinois—Scored three touchdowns in the final 40-0 romp over Colgate, two on runs of 11 and 17 yards and the third on a 10-yard pass play.
Dick Christy, North Carolina State—Ran the opening kickoff against Clemson 37-yards for a touchdown as N. C. State edged the Tigers, 13-7.
Dick Larson, Minnesota—Came off the bench to guide the Gophers to a narrow 21-17 victory over Purdue by racing 72 yards for a touchdown with a punt return, passing for another that broke a tie and then sewed up the game with a four-yard scoring thrust.
Fran Curci, Miami—The 152-pound sophomore quarterback pitched out for two scores in the first half as the Hurricanes upset Baylor, 13-7.
Jim Bakhtiar, Virginia—Carried for a record 31 times and gained 143 yards in leading Virginia to a 28-20 victory over Wake Forest.

Carolina Win Due To Team Being Hungry

By The Associated Press
"Hungry. The boys were hungry for a victory and they went out and got one."
That's how Jim Tatum today described the startling 13-7 victory of his North Carolina Tar Heels over Navy, the nation's sixth-ranked football team, in one of two major upsets staged by Atlantic Coast Conference teams Saturday. The other came when South Carolina scored three touchdowns in the last quarter to defeat Texas 27-21.
Terps Bow To Duke
Games involving ACC teams saw two touchdowns on opening kickoffs. King Dixon went 93 yards for South Carolina and Dick Christy, went 37 yards in North Carolina State's 13-7 victory over Clemson.
N.C. State and Duke lead in conference standings with victories in each of their three games, all against ACC foes.
Duke, ranked fourth nationally, found Maryland tougher than expected before emerging with a 14-0 victory. Virginia defeated Wake Forest 28-20 to round out games for league teams.
North Carolina didn't use a single pass, and intercepted five Navy aerials. Tatum was asked whether these interceptions, together with the recovery of a Navy fumble on the Middles' 22-yard line that led to a Tar Heel touchdown, meant that the winners were getting all the breaks. He also was reminded that a clipping penalty nullified a Navy touchdown early in the game.
Helped Make Breaks
"Sure, we got some breaks, but you must remember that a winning team makes its own breaks," he said.
The Tar Heels changed their strategy for Navy, and instead of making use of a favorite running pass off a pass or end run option, fooled the Middles by staying on the ground.
Duke plays Rice at Houston Saturday and co-ACC leader North Carolina State should keep its slate clean in a Saturday night game at Florida State.
In other Saturday games, Clemson is at Virginia and Wake Forest is at Maryland in a game which will be televised.
North Carolina opens the weekend invading Miami Friday night.

Colts Cross Fingers For Packer Game

By The Associated Press
BALTIMORE, Md.—The Baltimore Colts will go to Milwaukee Sunday to play the Green Bay Packers with their fingers crossed.
They'll have the hex on against a reputation of 1955.
The Colts beat the Detroit Lions and Chicago Bears in their first games that season for their first start in four in the National Football League.
They whipped the Packers, too, but suffered a terrific physical beating. Ambulances met the Colts on their return to cart off the wounded and they never recovered. They won only two of their last nine games.
Now the Colts again have beaten the Lions and Bears and are heading for Green Bay.
Among those who will remember the 1955 trip vividly is Glen Marchetti, off to his greatest season at defensive end for the Colts. He had a shoulder dislocated two years ago at Milwaukee.
Marchetti is one of the keys in a Baltimore defense credited largely with Baltimore's first two victories. Injuries to any of that crew would be regarded more seriously than to any others by a majority of Baltimoreans.
The Colts already have lost standout linebacker Bill Pelling for the season with a fractured arm. Injuries are more important this year than in the past because of a new NFL rule.
A team either has to go without a replacement or give up the injured player for the season now. Previously, a substitute could be hired for as long as 30 days while the injured player recovered.

Terps In Class More Suited To Talent With Wake Forest

By The Associated Press
Maryland can look forward with justification to its first football victory of the season against Wake Forest on Saturday at College Park.
Navy also may reasonably expect to resume its winning way at California.
Two of the other state college games Johns Hopkins against Washington Lee and Western Maryland with Penn Military College, are about even choices.
In the other game between the state's two Negro colleges, Maryland State is favored over Morgan.
Maryland, after losing its third straight game 14-0 to Duke, is in a class more suited to its talent with Wake Forest. The Deacons were one of the two teams Maryland defeated, 6-0, last season and like Maryland hasn't shown any startling improvement.
Wake Forest has been beaten 27-0 by Florida and 28-20 by Virginia.
Navy, which can be expected to be good and mad about its unexpected 13-7 loss to North Carolina, probably will take it out on California.
The West Coast is the native stamping ground of Coach Eddie Erdelatz and he puts in extra effort to look good out there. The last time he took a Navy team out there in 1954 it trounced Stanford 25-0.
California has shown only that it is a stubborn team, losing all three games so far by low margins. It lost 13-6 to Southern Methodist, 13-7 to Washington State and 19-0 to powerful Michigan State.
Johns Hopkins and Washington and Lee are playing football for the first time since 1922. Both lost their opening game last Saturday. Johns Hopkins 13-6 to Franklin & Marshall and W & L 7-6 to Centre.
Western Maryland has an idea what to expect from Penn Military, having lost to them 19-0 last year. The Cadets beat Bridgeport 13-6 last week while Western

LA To Decide On Bums Today

LOS ANGELES, (AP)—"Time's a waste!" a Brooklyn Dodgers official told the Los Angeles City Council, which today faces a showdown on the proposed contract to move the baseball club here.
The remark was made by Henry J. Walsh, attorney and secretary of the Dodgers, after conferring with members of the council yesterday.
The contract comes up for what is expected to be a final vote although some minority members indicated they would try to delay action for a few days in view of the fact that the National League has given Dodgers President Walter O'Malley an extension until Oct. 15 to make up his mind about moving.
Mayor Norris Poulson says he is confident he has the 10 votes necessary to approve the contract. The council has 15 members.

By The Associated Press

The upstart and unbeaten Baltimore Colts and the back-home again Cleveland Browns today were a step ahead of a logjam of eight National League teams.

The Colts pace the Western Conference with 2-0 records. The rest of the league is virtually a tie after one big second-place tie after a weekend play.

Sunday's results compounded the tangle as last week's losers turned on the winners. The Detroit Lions deflated the previous unbeaten Green Bay Packers 24-14; Washington's rookies powered the Redskins to a 37-14 triumph over the Chicago Cardinals; and the San Francisco 49ers reversed a lopsided exhibition performance and whipped the Los Angeles Rams 23-20. All six teams have 1-1 records.

Colts Whip Bears

The New York Giants, defending champions, evened their record Saturday night, winning their first game, 24-20, against winless Philadelphia. In other Saturday games, Cleveland moved into familiar first place quarters after overpowering Pittsburgh 23-12 and the Colts repeated a 1956 upset of the troubled Chicago Bears 21-10.

Before finishing fourth in the East in 1956, the Browns had won the conference title six straight years. Baltimore has never finished higher than fourth the past four seasons.

Pittsburgh also has a 1-1 record. The Bears, Western champions last year, and the Eagles each look their second defeats in two games.

The Lions shocked the Packers at Green Bay with a wild gamble that paid off in a touchdown.

Packers Astonished

Detroit's Yale Lary stepped into punt formation in the first period. Detroit was on its 35, fourth down, 22 yards to go for a first down. Lary ran instead of kicking. Astonished Green Bay defenders hauled him down on the Packer 33. Five plays later, Tobin Rote, former Packer quarterback skinned two yards around right end and scored.

A minute later, Lien Jack Christensen intercepted Babe Parilli's pass on the Packer 29 and returned it for a touchdown. Detroit led 21-0 in the fourth quarter before Green Bay scored twice.

At Chicago, Ed Sulton, North Carolina halfback, and Don Bosser, Miami (Fla.) fullback, accounted for three touchdowns in the Redskins romp. Both are first-year men.

Quarterback Eddie Le Baron found John Carson with a 19-yard pass for the other Washington touchdown. Sam Baker kept the "Skins percolating with three field goals.

Rams Drub 49ers

The Rams whipped San Francisco 58-27 in an earlier exhibition game. But they discovered quarterback Y. A. Tittle plays far keeps in the regular season.

The former Louisiana State passer tossed the clinching touchdown pass 11 yards to rookie R. C. (Overdrive) Owens. Owens earlier turned a 46-yard Tittle aerial into a score with a leaping catch.

Tittle, 30, a balding 10-year man, started the 48er scoring with a pass to end Clyde Conner. Conner was hit on the arm 23. He lateralled to Billy Wilson who continued for a touchdown.

PACING REPUBLICANS WILL MEET EAGLES

Pacing Republican Club meets tomorrow evening in the Frostburg Tenpin League while third-place Independents take on Lions.

Republican Club beat Independents, 2-1, and Eagles failed to pick up ground in being handed a 2-1 setback by Lions. Republican Club leads by three games.

Team scoring leaders were Tony Arnone, 218-611, Republican Club; "Chuck" Kallmyer, 195-557, Independents; Jim Porter 194 and Bob Porter 553, Eagles; Charles Shutz 200 and John Ritchie 505, Lions. Standings:

Bohs Maintain Game Lead In Tenpin Action

National Bohs held onto their one-game lead in the Allegheny County Tenpin League by sweeping Outdoor Club, 3-0, as runner-up Green's Chevrolet were white washing Cresap Tavern, 3-0.

Jim Brady's 189-519 paced Boh's while Jim Jones had 167.474 for losing Outdoor Club. For Green's with Vernon Shaffer, posting a 209-510 for Cresap Tavern.

In other matches, Jim's TV took all three games from Lucas Service. Music Shop won by 2-1 over Old Germans with other 2-1 winners being McIntyre's Chevrolet, let over Old Exports, Silver, Jones over Hy-Burgess and Clapper's Old over Mannett's Service.

Larry Shaner and Ernie Scarpelli shared top honors for the night with Shaner tossing a 214-525, Warnick's; Gene Warnick, 174-478, McIntyre's. Standings:

They raged indignantly at Casey Stengel whenever he ventured forth to consult with a harried pitcher, they counted his steps from the dugout to the mound and back thunderously, and finally won a kiss thrown to the stands by the grizzled old pilot.

Until Sunday's humbl, the Milwaukee crowd had been what the visitors may be startled to learn is called conservative. For instance, Earl Verxa, who manages concessions at the stadium, said that the fans for Saturday's third series game did away with only about 40,000 bottles of beer and 8,000 bratwurst. This amounts to less than one helping of suds per customer, and during a warm summer evening that would be considered a drought by bleacher experts.

Same Attendance

The stadium crowd was 45,804—exactly the same as Saturday. Tony Kubek, the suburban Milwaukee boy who tested his home-town tolerance by returning to the scene of his scandal days in a Yankee uniform and then rendered the future residence of even distant relatives a matter of questionable safety Saturday by belting two home runs in the Yankee victory, was forgiven yesterday. Up in the eighth with runners on first and third, Tony hit into a double play. And when he returned to his position, fans close in third base got up a friendly little cheer.

Rain Postpones Golf Title Match

Yesterday's heavy rain caused postponement of the 36-hole match for the fall championship of the Cumberland Country Club's men's fall tourney.

"Bill" Catherman, seeking to retain his title and also win his 10th club championship, will meet John Topper for the crown next Sunday; the match to begin at 10 a. m.

Leaders Sweep To Shutouts In Commercial Play

The first three teams, including pacesetter Times-News, racked up sweeps in the Commercial Bowling League matches last week. Newsies won over Potomac Edison, runnerup Cee's Cafe blanked Warnick's Mocket and third-place Rosenbaum's white washed McIntyre's Chevrolet.

By bagging the shutouts, Cee's stayed within a game of front-running Times-News, showing a 10-2 mark to the 11-1 of the defending champions. Rosenbaum's has won eight and lost four.

Tommy McGeeley led the Times-News barrage with a 225-612 total, both high for the evening. Oscar Leasure posted a 210-567 for Rosenbaum's with Cecil Grimes (209) and "Butch" Johnson (199) pacing Cee's Cafe.

Other team leaders were Harry Deter 142 and Don Clites 318; Potomac Edison; Boh Ziler, 183-525, Warnick's; Gene Warnick, 174-478, McIntyre's. Standings:

Milwaukee

ready to nail down their third series win and the title-hungry city of Milwaukee was ready for a psychiatrist's couch.

Gloom engulfed the home of the Braves as the Warriors came up for their last at bats. Tommy Hyne, fourth Yankee pitcher, faced pinch-hitter Nippy Jones and he tipped him on the foot with a wayward toss. Plate umpire Augie Donatelli awarded first base to Jones after confirming the presence of shoe polish on the baseball.

Felix Mantilla was sent to run for Jones and Stengel hastily summoned right-handed reliever specialist Bob Grim from the Yankee bullpen. Grim, who was to be the losing pitcher, faced Red Schoendienst and the old pro second baseman adeptly put down a sacrifice bunt which advanced Mantilla to second.

Barely moments later Felix reeled around to score on Logan's savage double to left field. The score was knitted again and life was temporarily worth living for Milwaukee's faithful.

Up came Mathews with a bat borrowed from Joe Adcock. Eddie's double in the fourth inning had been his first hit of the series. This time he produced the biggest hit of the classic.

With the count 2-2, Mathews powered the ball over the 355-foot sign in right field and hysteria and joy burst through the dikes of frustration.

Spain Gets Victory

Spain, who gave up a total of 11 hits, seven of them over the last three innings, was credited with the win, his second Series triumph in his long career.

The 36-year-old lefty, victim of Ford's five-hitter in the opener, yielded a run in the first inning and then appeared to be in command after a three-run homer by Hank Aaron and a solo smash by Frank Torre off Yankee starter Tom Sturdivant gave the Braves four markers, in the fourth.

Three fast double plays by the Milwaukee infield aided the redoubtable southpaw until two out singles by Yogi Berra and Gil McDougald in the ninth set the stage for Howard's homer.

In all, the Braves managed seven hits, but the heroic deeds of Aaron, Torre and Mathews proved to be the difference.

Your Horoscope

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

For Tuesday, October 7, 1957:

MARCH 21 to APRIL 20 (Aries)—Your Mars and the Moon now warn against irritability, getting fussed up over little things. Sound matters and difficult mechanical work can be handled to good advantage, however.

APRIL 21 to MAY 21 (Taurus)—Your best interests will be benefited by paying close attention to duties. Some tasks may be difficult, but handling some may require extra vigor, but you can handle them well. Be patient.

MAY 22 to JUNE 21 (Gemini)—Day does not promise to be entirely successful in all departments; some things will be better than others, but you can achieve in your special duties, particularly in tasks with which you are conversant.

JUNE 22 to JULY 21 (Cancer)—Emotional control will be important. Forget trivial annoyances and never mind what others think of you. Be conscientious, and with a smile, and you will be rewarded with top results.

JULY 22 to AUGUST 21 (Leo)—Advice to Cancer pertinent here today. Your Sun in similar aspect to the Moon and Mars. Difficult matters, problems and projects will require more effort and patience, but you can benefit.

AUGUST 22 to SEPTEMBER 21 (Virgo)—And you can lead advice to Gemini now. As you plan and work, remember that even small gains in advancement, and that no sincere and intelligent effort is ever wasted. Do your best.

SEPTEMBER 22 to OCTOBER 21 (Libra)—While the influences may not be entirely satisfactory where personal matters are concerned, you can gather new knowledge, and perhaps try your hand at something different.

OCTOBER 22 to NOVEMBER 21 (Scorpio)—Saturn is in very friendly aspect in your sector. If you keep emotions under control and refuse to be involved into unpleasant controversies, day can prove beneficial.

NOVEMBER 22 to DECEMBER 21 (Sagittarius)—You are urged to be thoughtful in expenditures, investments, handling money generally. Emphasize your best qualities, and plan a well-planned schedule and you will advance.

DECEMBER 22 to JANUARY 21 (Capricorn)—Your Saturn is in a successful position, and this is a mixed period. This can be stimulating and invigorating, but be mindful of possible pitfalls, involving being too exacting, etc. Gracefulness will be required.

JANUARY 22 to FEBRUARY 19 (Aquarius)—Be accurate, and don't waste valuable time on trivial matters or frivolous persons. Have the spirit to say "no" when you should—and stick to it. Good results if you do your best.

FEBRUARY 20 to MARCH 20 (Pisces)—Lead admonition to Sagittarius and will better your day, and your efforts. Self-restraint will be important; also judgment and patience. Show your good humor.

YOU—HORN TODAY have sound judgment, even balance and are imaginative and intuitive. You like to aid the underprivileged, children and old folks, and you repose your friends for their good qualities. You have talent, ability and efficiency galore. These gifts must be cultivated, nurtured and used daily for good. You also have a knack for mechanics, building, caring for live stock, handling people. Don't ever exceed flattery. Attribute to: John Day, Amer. author, statesman.

HERE is a pleasant little game that will give you a message every day. It is a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is 6 or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 6, add 2. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner of the rectangle and check every one of your key numbers, left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures give you.
